COLLEGE GRADUATE AT 14

Remarkable Career of Norbert Weiner who Received Tufts Degree

No little attention was attracted by the graduation from Tufts College last week by Norbert Weiner of Medford, with the degree of A. B. (cum laude.) He is the son of Professor Leo Weiner of Harvard and has completed the regular four year course at Tufts in three years. He could repeat the alphabet at the age of eleven months, and at the age of eight he was fitted for college in mathematics, philosophy, modern languages and the sciences. It required less than three years of schooling, after donning sport trousers for him to prepare for college. When Weiner entered Tufts in the autumn of 1906, he had gone further in chemistry and philosophy than the average senior. He was required to take several entrance examinations, mathematics among them, in which he was found to be as far in advance of the freshman class. So, as a freshman he did upper class work in the theory of equations and in determinants, while in philosophy it was found necessary to place him in a class by himself. He had read Spencer, Haeckel, Darwin, Huxley and many others. Now he has read Locke, Hobbes and other English philosophers; he has translated Homer and several plays of Aeschylus, as well as a similar amount of Latin. In mathematics he has delved into the Galois theory of equations, and has completed differential and integral calculus. He will continue this branch this year, and will study the philosophies of Leibnitz, Spinoza and Kant. In Greek he will read Herodotus and Sophocles; the rest of his time will be taken up by biology and organic chemistry.

In the autumn he will enter the Harvard Graduate school, where he will elect work in higher mathematics, with a supplementary course in biology or chemistry. After receiving the doctor's degree at seventeen he intends to spend two or three years in Germany and France, devoting himself to philosophy and science. That is, at an age when the average boy has still two years of work ahead of him for his bachelor's degree. Weiner expects to be doing advanced scientific work among the savants of a German Burlington's attempt to revive the Lake Champlain sea-serpent for Tercentenary week is meeting with only partial success.

Senator Page, who is in the hide business didn't hesitate to vote for free hides, but not being in the printing business he didn't vote for free paper.

If Bennington county won't build a new courthouse it at least ought to provide a tent to house the witnesses who are compelled to be in attendance at county court.

There are two opinions about this special session of Congress that bids fair to last all summer. Even some of those who insist that it is a bad thing for the country admit that it is good enough for Congress.

The Rutland railroad has posted notices urging its employees to be always courteous in their dealings with the public. It is a sensible step that will return money profit in the long run.

It is reported through the state that the Van Ness house at Burlington has fixed its rate for Tercentenary week at six dollars a day. If the report is not true the hotel is being maligned. If the report is true the truth is sufficient.

The Groton Times is trying to break the mountain rule and nominate Joseph A. DeBoer for governor. It is having about the same success that the Banner did last year in the same line in trying to renominate Governor Proctor. Yet the Times has no reason to be ashamed of its stand.

The International Council of Women in session at Toronto, voted against the modern peace movement at least so far as it related to disarmament, arbitration, and similar propositions of the progressists. One German delegate said the German people had no sympathy with the movement. The hand that rocks the cradle is maled and clenched.—St. Albans Messenger.

In other words, the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that does the spanking.

The verdict in the Harris case appears to have been a just one and the sentence is not too severe. Moreover the case has been an example of prompt justice that ought to be salutary. It is only two months from the crime to the sentence. If all murder cases could be tried with equal promptness there would be less miscarriage of justice. The longer a case drags the more befuddled it gets and the more opportunity there is for mistaken sentiment to help cloak the naked horror of a crime.
